Introduction

The Queensland Waste Management and Resource Recovery Strategy (the Waste Strategy) provides the framework for Queensland to become a zero-waste society, where waste is avoided, reused and recycled to the greatest possible extent. To meet the Strategy's targets, all Queenslanders must work together to reduce the amount of waste that is produced, and ultimately disposed of, through sustainable waste management practices.

Queensland's local governments play a vital role in providing reliable waste management services to households and businesses across the state. These services are an important avenue for change to ensure that recycling is maximised and as much waste as possible is diverted away from landfill.

With this in mind, the Queensland Government is investing $1.1 billion into the Recycling and Jobs Fund (the Fund). Through the Fund, The Department of Environment, Science and Innovation (the department) is delivering the Education and Behaviour Change Initiative (EBCI) to support Queensland councils drive a shift in community attitudes and behaviours to waste management and recycling.

Under the EBCI is a range of activities supporting Queensland councils to target household waste management and recycling behaviours, reduce contamination in kerbside recycling, increase resource recovery rates, and reduce littering and illegal dumping incidents.

These activities include:

- Attitudinal baseline surveys across Queensland households, councils and material recovery facilities (MRF) to establish baseline data and monitor changes in the real and perceived attitudes towards recycling in Queensland.
- A six-week digital and social "Let's get it sorted" advertising pilot delivered across twelve South East Queensland and seven regional government areas (March 2023), focussing on materials that can be recycled and consistent recycling tips, in preparation for a major campaign.
- The Let's Get it Sorted Partnership Program (LGIS Partnership Program) toolkits which provide best practice guidance and strategies for councils undertaking household education and behaviour change interventions. The toolkits include a range of materials, assets, consistent messaging and resources that can be adapted for use in all local areas across the state.
- The LGIS Partnership Program (Behaviour Change Intervention) providing funds for councils to undertake household education and behaviour change interventions using behaviour change toolkits with a range of materials, assets, consistent messaging and resources that can be adapted for use in all local areas across the state.
- The LGIS Partnership Program (Behaviour Change Coordinator) - herein referred to as the Program - providing funds for groups of geographically aligned Queensland councils, or lead councils for a Queensland region, to engage a behaviour change coordinator (coordinator) to develop and coordinate education and behaviour change interventions.
